

The 2021 Veolia Foundation's Student Solidarity Prize is opened!

Despite the health context, the Veolia Foundation wishes to continue to promote public interest projects through the Student Solidarity Prize and its 2021 edition. The Veolia Foundation intends, once again, to encourage the initiative and involvement of higher education students in projects of general interest.

What is the Student Solidarity Award?

- Veolia's desire to encourage initiative and the involvement of students in projects of general interest
- more than 100 innovative projects contributing to sustainable development
- 3 winners

Why participate?

- Benefit from the expertise of a Veolia employee and technical support.
- Financial support with 10,000 euros distributed among the three winners.

Key dates
March
 opening of the project deposit platform

Key dates
April 30
 closure of project applications

Key dates
June 21
 Student Solidarity Award Ceremony

Who is the Award for?

To associations made up of students in France and abroad and carrying out a project in one of the areas of intervention of the Veolia foundation:

- Aid for international development
- Social bonds and support towards employment
- Protection of the environment and biodiversity

You have until April 30 to apply.

